

Roanoke River BLUEWAY

What is the Roanoke River Blueway?

The Roanoke River Blueway is a 45-mile designated water trail that stretches from eastern Montgomery County to the beginning of Smith Mountain Lake. Users can experience rural, scenic backcountry floats, opt for an urban experience with restaurants and breweries, or do both in the same day!

Getting on the Blueway

There are numerous access points along the Roanoke River Blueway, and more are soon to be added! For up to date information on access points, water levels, and all of the things you need to know to start your trip, visit RoanokeRiverBlueway.org.

What Do We Do?

We help coordinate all of the many partners who help to keep our waterways clean, promote outdoor recreation and tourism, and generally improve the quality of outdoor experience on the river. We also promote the Roanoke River Blueway as a unique outdoor recreation destination in the Roanoke Valley.
